The Snow That Didn't,

Thus sighed the poet in a golden

swoon
As switted the snow about the lilac tree;
"This means that in the morning we shall look Upon a scene of fairy melody,
A rargoyle on the pump and facade
Upon libe hen co and a lace like scarf
About the iron reindeer on the lawn."

"To-morrow," cried the small boy, "down the hill I'll slide and make a snowman in the
